MRCB SUPPORTS EARTH HOUR 2009

Joins Millions in Malaysia and around the world in Turning-Off Lights for one hour

Kuala Lumpur, 25 March, 2009– At precisely 8.30pm local time this Saturday, Malaysian Resources Corporation Berhad (MRCB) and two of its key developments – Kuala Lumpur Sentral and Plaza Alam Sentral will join cities across Malaysia and millions around the world in turning their lights off for one hour in support of Earth Hour 2009!

Key buildings in MRCB's Kuala Lumpur Sentral development, including its landmark office towers and the KL Sentral Station, Malaysia's busiest transport hub will turn off all non-essential lighting. Shah Alam's largest shopping mall, Plaza Alam Sentral, as well as other properties owned by MRCB in that city, will also take part in the occasion.

"As lights go out in major cities all over the world, we hope to do our part in highlighting the critical need to address climate change issues," said En. Shahril Ridza Ridzuan, MRCB's Group Managing Director.

"Our employees are also taking part in Earth Hour on a personal level and we are encouraging everyone to sign up and participate with their families. We have a very high percentage of staff with young families, and everyone here is keenly aware of the need to safeguard our environment for future generations" he added.

This internal pressure to keep innovating will see MRCB's new buildings adopting global standards of sustainability, particularly in energy conservation. MRCB is also supportive of the forthcoming Malaysian standards for environmentally sustainable buildings.

In the area of environmental conservation, MRCB is currently the leader in rehabilitation and preservation of rivers, beaches, coastlines activities in the country with major projects now ongoing in Sungai Perai, Pulau Pinang, Kuala Sungai Pahang and Tioman Island in Pahang Darul Makmur.
